Re: It's Time to Follow the Science

Dear [name],

As a parent, it has come to my attention that your organization is not allowing unvaccinated children to attend your special program. Aggressively pushing the COVID-19 vaccines on children is egregious and discriminatory because these children are at virtually zero risk of serious complications from COVID. Your requirements are intentionally depriving these children of important opportunities being offered to those vaccinated. By way of this letter, I respectfully request that you change your stance and "follow the science."

First, there is no compelling scientific evidence or public health rationale for vaccinating children. The CDC's own data shows that 58% of all children have already acquired natural immunity to COVID and that natural immunity provides a broader spectrum and more durable immunity than vaccine-induced immunity. According to scientific studies, children who contract COVID have a recovery rate of 99.995%. In fact, the risk of death to a healthy child is statistically zero. Furthermore, the medical literature shows that healthy children are able to recover and heal from COVID more easily than adults. To make matters worse, a recent study indicated that the COVID vaccine only provides 12% effectiveness to children ages 5 to 11 after a 7-week observation period.

Second, the CDC admits that COVID vaccines neither stop infection from the virus nor prevent transmission. Furthermore, the risks far outweigh the benefits of COVID vaccination in children. The CDC's own preliminary data show that there has been an increased risk of myocarditis in children following COVID vaccination. In fact, as of Feb. 4, nearly half of children diagnosed with myocarditis still had symptoms 3 months later, and 39% of those children had to restrict their activity per their physician. Sadly, some child athletes have even died from heart failure after mandated COVID vaccination.

Third, there is little to no scientific evidence to prove that wearing face masks is effective in preventing the spread of COVID, especially for children. Instead, evidence is mounting to show that prolonged face mask use is potentially harmful in that it obstructs the proper flow of oxygen to the lungs and instead, forces one to inhale one's own carbon dioxide, thus causing respiratory impairment. Furthermore, scientific research indicates that wearing face masks may even lower one's blood oxygen levels and increase carbon dioxide blood levels. Also noteworthy, studies suggest that wearing a face mask can increase nasal congestion and negatively impact breathing physiology. These findings are concerning, not to mention that mask wearing causes both physical and developmental harm.

Early studies indicate that young children forced to wear face masks during the pandemic will suffer for years to come from the negative impact on their social integration, communication skills, and cognitive function. In fact, children who already struggle with learning or have special needs will be disproportionately impacted, carrying the greatest burden. In Although these harms affect everyone, children are especially vulnerable to the prolonged use of wearing a face mask; those in charge should caution against the use of face masks in children especially since the clinical evidence fails to show efficacy in either protection against or transmission of the virus.

The pandemic has been a hardship not only for children, but also for parents struggling to do what is best for their kids. According to recent studies, many parents reported that the pandemic is to blame for the increased stress that their children are experiencing. The lockdowns, the social distancing, the mask mandates and the on-line learning have all taken a toll not only on their children's daily routines, but more importantly, on their mental health. Research confirms that these restrictions that have imposed both social isolation and sedentary behaviors on children have negatively affected cognitive and behavior development.

Although some of the restrictions have been lifted, many children continue to suffer from major anxiety and depression because there appears to be no end in sight, and the narrative is constantly changing, adding new stressors to their lives. For instance, the parents of unvaccinated children are now being told that their children are being barred from important events because they are not vaccinated. Rather than be a beacon of light during a dark time in history and include these children in your organization by offering them hope or a safe haven where they can go to participate in meaningful opportunities, your organization has consciously closed the door by imposing an unprecedented experimental vaccine mandate that is both unethical and outright dangerous.

Isn't it time to follow the real science? The actual science shows that not only are COVID vaccines unnecessary and ineffective in children, but they can be harmful and even deadly. The risk of suffering an adverse event after vaccination, particularly in children, is far from rare and clearly outweighs any potential benefits. For example, recent VAERS (Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System) data show that there have been 1,202,755 adverse events, including 214,521 labeled serious and 26,396 deaths after vaccination as of April 8. More specifically, for 12- to 17-year-olds, there have been 30,771 adverse events, including 1,771 labeled serious, and 43 deaths. For 5 to 11-year-olds, 9,771 adverse events, including 234 labeled serious, and 5 deaths. These frightening numbers do not even adequately reflect the true numbers of the injuries and deaths that have occurred. In fact, over 16,000 physicians and medical scientists agree and are speaking out against children being vaccinated for COVID. Governor Newsom of California has postponed any COVID vaccine mandate for schoolchildren. New York State has no viable legislation to mandate the shots for school. The Surgeon General of Florida has recommended that parents not vaccinate their children against COVID. Parents are becoming informed and are learning that these vaccines can cause irreversible and permanent damage.

Although the FDA has recently approved the Pfizer and Moderna COVID vaccines under the brand names Comirnaty and Spikevax respectively, both the FDA and the CDC confirm that neither vaccine is currently available for use in the U.S.[20] This means that if these FDA fully licensed and approved vaccines were currently available, these manufacturers would be immediately stripped of their liability shield granted to them under the EUA.[20] In other words, these manufacturers would be held legally responsible under the same product liability laws as other U.S. products for any injuries or deaths caused by their product.[20] As it is now, both Pfizer and Moderna enjoy a complete liability waiver while these EUA "experimental" products continue to be administered throughout the US.[20]

At this point, if your organization continues to mandate "experimental" COVID vaccines for all children wanting to not only attend but to be allowed to participate without restriction in your organization's summer camps, it will constitute a clear and egregious violation of the Nuremberg Code. Specifically, the Nuremberg Code prohibits the "human experimentation" of any kind of medical procedure deemed to be "investigational" whereby the recipients are classified as "human subjects." Furthermore, the Nuremberg Code categorically requires the voluntary informed consent of all participants "without the intervention of any element of force, fraud, deceit or duress." This means that every individual has the right under the Nuremberg Code to refuse the experimental COVID vaccine without coercion, especially since the scientific evidence clearly shows that children are not at an elevated risk of serious illness or death should they become infected with COVID. You understand that any violation of the Nuremberg Code constitutes a "crime against humanity." Therefore, if you continue to use coercive pressure through your policies, efforts will be made to bring your actions to light and ensure that justice is done.

I urge you to become informed and to strongly consider the actual science. The COVID vaccines offer little to no benefit because they do not stop the transmission or infection of the virus. I invite you to read the stories and learn how some children have already been severely and permanently injured or have even died after vaccination. Your organization has an opportunity to do the right thing. Please drop your policy that requires that all children be vaccinated to attend your program and help bring some normalcy back into the lives of these children. Their futures depend on it.

Sincerely yours,
